Rhead Divisional Directors achieve highly acclaimed Charter Status in the UK

Lee Foster

Rhead Group is delighted to announce that Lee Foster, Head of our Air and Maritime Division, has been awarded Fellowship of the Institute of Marine Engineers, Science and Technology (FIMarEST). The award also includes incorporation to the Engineering Council (UK) and follows a 12 month period of personal and professional review and assessment by the institute.

This Fellowship reflects Lee's hard work over the last 12 months, a strong commitment to his profession and reiterates the standing he has reached within the maritime industry. Lee's positive impact and contribution to the industry over the last 20 years has been clearly recognised this prestigious and influential award. Lee commented: "this is a significant mile stone for me as the Institute is recognised as the leading membership body and learned society for marine professionals. They boast an extensive network of branches across the globe with over 15,000 members worldwide."

Mark Singleton

Rhead Group's Head of Risk Management Mark Singleton has received chartered from the Chartered Management Institute. Following a period of review and assessment Mark has been granted the status for his work overseeing risk management across all Rhead Group divisions.

Status is awarded to managers who can prove to the institute that they make a positive impact to their company's operations and bottom line. The award reflects Mark's contribution since joining the company.

Director of Human Resources Barbara Moore added: "we are delighted for both Lee and Mark and congratulate them on their respective awards. As a company we encourage and support all members of the team to achieve the highest accolades available across their fields of expertise. Becoming chartered opens a wealth of opportunities to them in their career paths and strengthens our capability as leaders in our sectors."
